

PPE Europe Annual Conference 2025

May 21st-23rd, 2025

Milan, Italy

Invited Speakers:

Daniel Hausman (Rutgers University)

Joan C. Tronto (University of Minnesota)

Conference Theme: Welfare in the Twenty-First Century

The model of welfare state that emerged in Western societies in the middle of the Twentieth Century is widely considered a success, and has been extensively replicated in the rest of the world. It not only realized ideas of justice, but also created political legitimacy for democracy and capitalism. Several warning signals however indicate that the model may be inadequate to deal with challenges such as declining birth rates, low economic growth, migrations, and pandemics. This conference will address these challenges from a philosophical, political, legal and economic perspective.

We welcome papers in all areas of PPE, but special consideration will be given to contributions that focus on health, aging and welfare in the Twenty-first Century.

Submission Guidelines

Abstracts must be submitted through email to ppeconference2025@univr.it.

Abstracts in .doc or .pdf must be ready for double-blind review and should not exceed 500 words. The email must contain details on all contributors, the title of the abstract, their affiliation and the contact information for the corresponding author.

Participants can only send one contribution as first authors, but they can appear as second authors of other contributions.

Any request for information should be sent to ppeconference2025@univr.it.

Deadlines and Reviewing Process

The deadline for abstract submission is December 16th, 2024.

Notification of acceptance will be given by February 17th, 2025.

Abstracts will be subject to blind review. Reviewers will be selected from experts in the field. Accepted papers will have 20 minutes for presentation, plus 10 minutes for discussion.
